Additional Legal History

On October 12, 1940, Disney County Superior Court appointed Lady Tremaine as Cinderella's legal guardian following Mr. Tremaine's death.

REASON FOR HEARING

This petition is being filed on behalf of Cinderella Tremaine, age 16, due to allegations of emotional abuse, neglect, and acts of cruelty by her legal guardian, Lady Tremaine.

On August 7, 1950, the day after the royal ball, Disney County received a report from the guards of the Grand Duke after he arrived at the Tremaine residence to identify the owner of a glass slipper. During the visit, Cinderella was found to have been locked in a tower room while the other household members met with the Grand Duke downstairs. The guards requested an emergency response after Cinderella was released and the matching slipper was confirmed.

The undersigned interviewed Cinderella at the residence that afternoon. Cinderella described years of being required to serve Lady Tremaine, Anastasia, and Drizella, along with social isolation, verbal abuse, destruction of her personal property, lack of education, and repeated confinement in her room. The worker observed that Cinderella's room was separated from the family's living quarters with minimal furnishings and that a working lock was mounted on the outside of the door.

Cinderella reported that Lady Tremaine locked the tower door before the Grand Duke entered the home and kept the key with her. Cinderella said she called for help and was later released with assistance from the household animals. The Grand Duke confirmed that Cinderella came downstairs after a delay and appeared frightened and out of breath. Drizella later admitted that Lady Tremaine had locked Cinderella in the room on prior occasions.

Cinderella also described an extensive daily chore schedule that was not shared by Anastasia or Drizella. A neighbor reported that they had believed Cinderella was employed as a maid because they regularly saw her cleaning and rarely saw her leave the grounds. Cinderella stated that Lady Tremaine had told her she should be grateful to remain in the home and that complaining would only make her duties harder.

Lady Tremaine denied abuse and characterized the arrangements as ordinary household discipline. Anastasia and Drizella minimized their behavior but admitted that Cinderella performed nearly all household work and that they had torn apart the dress she planned to wear to the ball. Palace personnel confirmed that Cinderella attended the royal ball on August 6, 1950, left shortly before midnight, and lost a glass slipper on the palace steps. The Grand Duke confirmed that the second slipper fit Cinderella at the residence on August 7, 1950.

Cinderella was taken into temporary protective care on August 7, 1950, after the initial interview and home assessment. The pattern of isolation, forced labor, destruction of property, lack of education, and confinement creates a substantial risk of continued emotional harm, neglect, and acts of cruelty if she returns without enforceable safeguards. Lady Tremaine denies responsibility and has not proposed a credible safety plan. The Agency requests continued detention while it assesses placement, services, and safe contact.

PATERNITY/LEGAL RELATIONSHIPS

On August 7, 1950, Lady Tremaine reported that Cinderella's father was the late Mr. Tremaine, who died on October 7, 1940, when Cinderella was six years old. She reported that Cinderella's mother was the late Mrs. Tremaine, who died on July 15, 1934, during Cinderella's birth.

On August 7, 1950, Cinderella provided the same information about her biological parents.

On August 8, 1950, the undersigned obtained certified death records from the Disney County Office of Vital Records confirming both deaths.

PRIOR CHILD WELFARE HISTORY

On October 20, 1940, the Agency received a referral alleging that Lady Tremaine assigned Cinderella disproportionate chores and excluded her from family activities. Cinderella's father had died less than two weeks earlier, and Lady Tremaine had become her sole legal guardian. The referral was closed as inconclusive due to Cinderella denying the concerns and the home appeared adequate during the announced visit. Grief counseling and family counseling were offered. Lady Tremaine declined family counseling, and no ongoing case was opened.

CRIMINAL HISTORY

On August 8, 1950, the undersigned requested a records check for Lady Tremaine through the Disney County Sheriff's Office and the county court clerk. A prior record entry was located, but no criminal convictions were identified.

EFFORTS TO LOCATE ABSENT PARENTS

On August 7, 1950, both Lady Tremaine and Cinderella reported that Cinderella's biological parents were deceased.

On August 8, 1950, the undersigned obtained certified death records confirming that Mrs. Tremaine died on July 15, 1934, during Cinderella's birth and that Mr. Tremaine died on October 7, 1940 due to acute febrile illness.

THE NEED (IF ANY) FOR CONTINUED DETENTION

There is a substantial danger to the physical health of the child or the child is suffering severe emotional damage, and there are no reasonable means by which the child's physical or emotional health may be protected without removing the child from the parents' or guardians' physical custody.

The child is unwilling to return after alleged abuse by a household member.

Cinderella consistently states that she does not feel safe returning home with Lady Tremaine. Lady Tremaine denies the maltreatment of Cinderella and the harm of her actions, Anastasia and Drizella remain in the residence, and no protective adult is available in the home. Cinderella is at high risk of continued emotional abuse and neglect if left in Lady Tremaine's care because of the length of the maltreatment and Lady Tremaine's refusal to engage in meaningful safety planning.

REASONABLE EFFORTS AND/OR PRIOR INTERVENTIONS/SERVICES OFFERED

Reasonable Efforts were made to prevent or eliminate the need for the child(ren)'s removal from the home. The following Pre-placement Preventive Services were provided but were not effective in preventing or eliminating the need for removal of the child from the home, including:

Counseling, Case Management, Parent Training, Public Assistance Services, Out of Home Respite Care, Teaching and Demonstration Homemaker, Other Services, Ongoing Safety and Risk Assessments.

Results of Previous Services:

During the 1940 referral, grief counseling and family counseling were offered, which Lady Tremaine declined. During the current investigation, the undersigned completed safety and risk assessments and explored an in-home plan involving a neutral supervising adult. The family was offered emergency counseling, case management, and homemaker support. Lady Tremaine agreed only to remove the exterior lock and denied any need for monitoring, changes to Cinderella's workload, or protection from retaliation.

The undersigned requested that Lady Tremaine stop locking Cinderella in the tower room, stop assigning punitive and excessive chores, allow Cinderella access to education, and prevent Anastasia and Drizella from destroying her belongings. Cinderella stated that she feared punishment for speaking with the Agency. The services offered were not enough to reduce the immediate risk because Lady Tremaine would not agree to supervision or a workable safety plan.

AVAILABLE SERVICES/REFERRAL METHODS WHICH COULD PREVENT THE NEED FOR FURTHER DETENTION AND/OR FACILITATE FUTURE RETURN OF THE CHILD(REN) TO PARENTS/LEGAL GUARDIANS

Counseling, Case Management, Emergency Shelter Care, Parent Training, Public Assistance Services, Out of Home Respite Care, Teaching and Demonstration
Homemaker, Transportation, Other Services, Ongoing Safety and Risk Assessments.

RELATIVE PLACEMENT INFORMATION

There are no relatives to consider for placement.

Lady Tremaine denied knowing of any living relatives of Cinderella.

Cinderella denied knowing of any family member with whom she could stay, however identified her Fairy Godmother, Fay Smemorina, as a trusted and supportive adult. Cinderella asked that Ms. Smemorina be considered for placement. Ms. Smemorina confirmed that she is willing to care for Cinderella. The Agency began an assessment of Ms. Smemorina's home and suitability on August 8, 1950.

WITNESS STATEMENTS/SUPPORTING EVIDENCE

Witness Statements:

Fay Smemorina, Fairy Godmother

On August 8, 1950, Ms. Smemorina reported that she went to the Tremaine property on the evening of August 6 after hearing Cinderella crying in the garden. She found Cinderella sitting near a stone bench with pieces of a torn dress around her. Cinderella's hair was disheveled, one sleeve had been pulled loose, and a necklace lay broken on the ground. Ms. Smemorina stated that Cinderella was shaking and had difficulty catching her breath. Ms. Smemorina reported that Cinderella said Anastasia and Drizella had torn apart the dress she made for the ball while Lady Tremaine watched. Cinderella told her that Lady Tremaine smiled, instructed her to clean up the pieces, and left with Anastasia and Drizella to the ball. Cinderella also said that she had completed the additional chores Lady Tremaine assigned and believed she had earned permission to attend. According to Ms. Smemorina, Cinderella said that no matter how hard she worked, Lady Tremaine always found a reason to keep her home. Ms. Smemorina stated that Cinderella spoke about missing both parents and feeling as though she had become a servant after her father's death. Cinderella said that the birds and mice were often her only company and that she tried not to show anger because she feared Lady Tremaine would punish them or lock her upstairs. Ms. Smemorina described Cinderella as depressed and hopeless, but still worried about causing trouble for anyone else. Ms. Smemorina acknowledged helping Cinderella attend the ball by providing a gown, glass slippers, and transportation. She stated that she warned Cinderella that the assistance would end at midnight. Ms. Smemorina did not enter the chateau and did not personally witness the earlier dress destruction, the household chores, or Lady Tremaine locking the tower room.

The Grand Duke

On August 7, 1950, the Grand Duke reported that the Prince directed him to visit every eligible young woman in the kingdom and identify the owner of the glass slipper left on the palace steps. He arrived at the Tremaine residence that morning with palace guards. Lady Tremaine greeted them and immediately presented Anastasia and Drizella. Both women attempted to force their feet into the slipper while Lady Tremaine spoke over them and repeatedly urged the Grand Duke to continue trying.

The Grand Duke stated that, while preparing to leave, he heard hurried footsteps and commotion near the upper stairway. Lady Tremaine said there was no other eligible young woman in the home and attempted to direct him toward the door. A short time later, Cinderella hurried downstairs and asked him to wait and allow her to try the slipper. She appeared out of breath, had dust on her skirt, and avoided looking at Lady Tremaine.

The Grand Duke stated that Lady Tremaine objected and called Cinderella a household servant, but he insisted that she try the shoe. As the footman carried the slipper toward Cinderella, Lady Tremaine extended her cane into his path. The footman tripped, the slipper fell, and it shattered. The Grand Duke described Lady Tremaine as calm rather than surprised. Cinderella then produced the matching glass slipper from her pocket and stated that she had kept it after leaving the ball.

The Grand Duke reported that the second slipper fit Cinderella without force. He recognized her face and voice as consistent with the young woman who had danced with the Prince the night before. After the fitting, Cinderella quietly told him that Lady Tremaine had locked her in the tower room when the carriage arrived and that she had only just been released. He did not personally see Lady Tremaine lock the door, but he observed the family's efforts to exclude Cinderella, Lady Tremaine's interference with the fitting, the stepsisters' surprise when Cinderella appeared, and Cinderella's fearful manner in the home. He asked the palace guard to request the Agency's response and wait until their arrival.

Princess Jasmine, Friend and Neighbor of Cinderella

On August 8, 1950, Princess Jasmine reported that she had known Cinderella for approximately two years, was her neighbor, and usually spoke with her through the kitchen window because Cinderella was rarely permitted to leave the property. She stated that Cinderella often worked from early morning until evening, cooking, cleaning, doing laundry, and sewing for the household. She recalled first meeting Cinderella, believing her to be a maid, rather than a daughter. Princess Jasmine recalled Cinderella saying that if she did not answer the morning bell quickly enough, Lady Tremaine added more work or kept her in the tower room.

Princess Jasmine reported seeing Anastasia deliberately track mud across a floor Cinderella had just cleaned and then demand that she clean it again. Cinderella told her that she had not attended lessons since her father died and that she wished she could read more than the few books left in the tower. Princess Jasmine stated that Cinderella usually tried to excuse the family's behavior, but during their most recent conversation she said she was tired of being treated as if she did not belong in her own home.

Child(ren)'s Statements:

Cinderella Tremaine, age 16

On August 7, 1950, Cinderella stated that Lady Tremaine required her to cook, clean, do laundry, sew, and respond to service requests from Lady Tremaine, Anastasia, and Drizella after her father's death. Cinderella said that she sleeps in a drafty tower room, is frequently insulted by Anastasia and Drizella, and is rarely allowed to leave the property. She reported that Lady Tremaine sometimes locks the door from the outside when she is displeased or wants to prevent Cinderella from leaving.

Cinderella reported that on August 6, 1950, she completed the chores assigned to her and prepared to attend the royal ball in a dress she had repaired. Anastasia and Drizella accused her of using discarded clothing that belonged to them and tore the dress apart. Cinderella said Lady Tremaine watched, smiled, and told her to clean up before the family left. Cinderella ran to the garden crying, where Ms. Smemorina found her and helped her attend the ball.

Cinderella stated that she danced with the Prince but did not tell him her name. She left shortly before midnight because Ms. Smemorina had warned that the gown and transportation would not last beyond that time. Cinderella lost one glass slipper while running down the palace steps and kept the other after returning home.

Cinderella stated that on the morning of August 7, Lady Tremaine learned that the Grand Duke was searching for the owner of the slipper. Prior to the Grand Duke's arrival, Lady Tremaine followed her to the tower, locked the door from the outside, and carried away the key. Cinderella said she called for help and heard the Grand Duke downstairs. She was released after the household mice obtained the key and brought it to her. Cinderella reported that she was afraid Lady Tremaine would punish her for coming downstairs and for speaking with the Agency. She denied feeling safe returning home, worried about retaliation from Lady Tremaine.

Anastasia, age 17

On August 7, 1950, Anastasia acknowledged arguing with Cinderella about the dress she planned to wear to the ball. She first blamed Drizella for tearing it, then admitted that she also pulled at the dress and broke part of the necklace. Anastasia stated that Cinderella had used discarded items that once belonged to her and Drizella. She acknowledged that Lady Tremaine watched and did not tell them to stop.

Anastasia reported that Cinderella had performed nearly all cooking, cleaning, laundry, and sewing for many years. She denied that she or Drizella had regular chores and said they spent their days taking lessons, practicing music, and going on walks. Anastasia described the division of work as Lady Tremaine's decision and said she did not know why Cinderella was expected to do so much. She denied seeing Lady Tremaine lock the tower door on August 7 but admitted knowing that the door could be locked from the outside.

Drizella, age 18

On August 7, 1950, Drizella admitted to tearing Cinderella's dress with Anastasia and stated that Lady Tremaine's made it clear she did not want Cinderella to attend the ball. Drizella reported that Lady Tremaine had given Cinderella an additional list of chores that she did not expect Cinderella to finish. She described Lady Tremaine as satisfied when the dress was destroyed and said Lady Tremaine smiled as they left for the ball.

Drizella confirmed that Cinderella had been responsible for nearly all household duties since Mr. Tremaine's death and had not attended lessons since. She admitted that Lady Tremaine had locked Cinderella in the tower room on prior occasions. Drizella stated that on August 7, Lady Tremaine did not want Cinderella to meet the Grand Duke because she feared Cinderella was the woman from the ball and that the Prince would choose her instead of Anastasia or Drizella. Drizella looked down while discussing the lock and said she was worried about how Lady Tremaine would treat Cinderella after the investigation.

Parents/Legal Guardians Statements:

Lady Tremaine, Step-Mother & Legal Guardian

On August 7, 1950, Lady Tremaine denied mistreating Cinderella, stating she has a wonderful life in the home. She described the chores as reasonable and stated that most teenagers would appreciate the privacy of a tower room. She denied that Anastasia or Drizella had regular household chores and said Cinderella enjoyed the work. When asked about the dress, Lady Tremaine said Anastasia and Drizella had only tried to adjust it and that it fell apart because it was poorly made.

Lady Tremaine acknowledged locking Cinderella's door but described it as temporary discipline for incomplete chores. She agreed to remove the lock when requested but denied that confinement caused harm or faced safety issues in case of an emergency. Lady Tremaine also stated that Cinderella had not attended lessons since she was about six years old because she did not take well to learning. When advised that Cinderella was required to receive an education, Lady Tremaine said she could arrange lessons if necessary.

Lady Tremaine denied tripping the palace footman and said he stumbled because he was careless. She also denied trying to hide Cinderella from the Grand Duke and stated that Cinderella had been sent to her room because she was disruptive. Lady Tremaine said she would accept Cinderella's return but opposed Agency monitoring, unannounced home visits, or limits on chores and discipline. She also did not agree that Anastasia or Drizella presented any risk.

Supporting Evidence

The worker observed a working lock mounted on the outside of Cinderella's tower-room door, a drafty and sparsely furnished room separated from the family's living quarters, a written chore schedule listing duties from early morning through evening, torn fabric and a broken necklace identified by Cinderella, Anastasia, Drizella, and Ms. Smemorina, and the matching glass slipper produced by Cinderella. The Grand Duke confirmed the fitting and the breaking of the first slipper.

FAMILY VISITATION

It is respectfully recommended that Lady Tremaine and Cinderella have two supervised visits each week for a total of three hours, subject to Cinderella's comfort attending. Contact with Anastasia and Drizella should occur only if Cinderella requests it and the clinician and Agency determine that it is safe.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF PLACEMENT

The child's place of detention shall be maintained confidential pursuant to WIC § 308(a) until the Dispositional Hearing. At that time, the judge may authorize, upon finding a good cause, the disclosure of the address.

ASSESSMENT/EVALUATION

A petition is being filed on behalf of Cinderella Tremaine, age 16, due to allegations of neglect and emotional abuse by her legal guardian, Lady Tremaine. The current investigation began on August 7, 1950, the day after the royal ball, when the Grand Duke visited the home and Cinderella was found to have been locked in the tower room. Cinderella was interviewed and removed from the residence that same day. This detention hearing is set for August 10, 1950, three days after her removal.

The investigation found that Cinderella has been required to perform nearly all household labor, has not received regular education since her father's death, has been isolated from people outside the home, has been subjected to repeated verbal mistreatment, and has been locked in her room. The physical layout of the home and the exterior lock are consistent with Cinderella's account. Her account is also supported by the chore schedule, the damaged dress and necklace, the statements of Ms. Smemorina and Princess Jasmine, the Grand Duke's observations, and admissions by Anastasia and Drizella. Lady Tremaine's conduct during the Grand Duke's visit is particularly concerning. Cinderella reported that Lady Tremaine recognized that she might be the woman from the ball, followed her to the tower, locked the door, and attempted to prevent her from meeting the Grand Duke. The Grand Duke did not see the door being locked, but he heard commotion near the upper stairway, saw Cinderella hurry downstairs, observed Lady Tremaine deny that another eligible young woman was present, and saw Lady Tremaine interfere with the slipper fitting. Drizella also confirmed that Lady Tremaine had used the exterior lock before and did not want Cinderella to be considered by the Prince. Lady Tremaine acknowledged the chores, the lack of education, and the use of the exterior lock, but she did not recognize these conditions as harmful. She denied that Anastasia and Drizella purposely destroyed the dress despite their admissions. Although Lady Tremaine agreed to remove the lock, she would not agree to supervision, unannounced visits, limits on Cinderella's workload, or protective conditions involving Anastasia and Drizella treatment towards her. Her refusal prevents the Agency from establishing a reliable in-home safety plan. Cinderella is resourceful, able to describe her experiences clearly, and connected to supportive adults. Those strengths do not remove the immediate risk in Lady Tremaine's home. Cinderella is fearful of retaliation, and no protective adult lives in the residence that the Agency can adequately plan with. Ms. Smemorina has offered placement, but the Agency must complete an assessment before recommending approval.

Due to the current allegations of emotional abuse, neglect, and acts of cruelty, Cinderella is at high risk of continued maltreatment if she remains in the care of Lady Tremaine. The Agency respectfully recommends continued detention pending further investigation.
